Peele's Black Norfolk Turkeys £ 13.99/kg
 In 2011 Peele's Turkeys celebrated 130 years of breeding, rearing and selling turkeys. The Norfolk Black originated in South America and is registered as a Rare Breed. Slow-matured and reared in a traditional way, the turkeys are fed on home-grown wheat, barley and field beans. They're allowed to roam freely on organic meadowland which is scattered with home-grown straw. These turkeys are killed as humanely as possible, dry plucked and carefully hung for at least 1 week to generate optimum flavour.

Great Grove Bronze Norfolk Turkeys – recommended as one of Rick Stein's food heroes £10.49/kg
 Great Grove Poultry is a small family farm who specialise in producing quality turkeys and geese. Their poultry is reared in a stress free environment on a 35 acre farm, covered in woodland and grassland. They only use slow growing birds that reach full maturity after 24-27 weeks. This gives them a layer of fat which aids cooking leaving the meat nice and juicy. These turkeys are killed as humanely as possible, dry hand plucked and carefully hung for up to 3 weeks to generate optimum flavour. The best value and great flavour.
